International Millennial Author Aspires to Bring Down Borders Starting with her Book Where to Next?

Melbourne, Australia, 19 April 2018 – BeBeyondBorders is delighted to announce the launch of Where to Next? Solène Anglaret's raw and inspiring memoir about travelling and living abroad.

The event will take place on Saturday 19 May from 4 – 6pm at The Moat, a lovely cafe and restaurant tucked under the State Library of Victoria.

Where to Next? is a book that will take you on a journey that starts in France and goes through Norway, the United States, the United Kingdom, China and finally Australia. It is filled with challenging experiences, fundamental lessons and unforgettable encounters. Written in short and witty snippets, it will captivate you and leave you wondering where or what 'home' actually means to you.

This memoir will resonate with the rapidly growing international community of people living beyond the national borders they were born and raised in. According to statistics published by the United Nations, there were 154 million of them in 1990, 175 million in 2000 and 232 million today. If this community decided to form their own country, it would be the fifth most populated in the world.

Ignored by most, these people who live beyond borders are who Solène wishes to help through her blog and her book: "My aim is to inspire people to step out of their comfort zone and open their mind and their hearts to other cultures and countries, whether that be through travelling, living abroad or even simply talking to someone who does or has."
